Super Megan

Boom! "Oh no! Was that thunder?" Megan had been to a birthday party all evening and hadn't noticed that the weather was starting to get bad. She began walking, hoping she could make it home before the weather got worse. Soon it was dark. The rain was pouring and she began noticing lightening flashes reflecting off of all the tall buildings around her. She was worried. "Uh oh, maybe I should fly instead." Megan didn't like o use her super powers all the time, but she decided that flying might help her get home more quickly and safely. She started spinning around and around to transform into Super Megan, and then took off flying into the air.

Super Megan was flying as fast as she could, dodging trees, poles and buildings. Suddenly she heard a big crash nearby. She wondered if she should stop and see what happened or just keep flying to get out of the storm. "What if someone is hurt?" she thought. She turned around and started flying up and down side streets. Finally, she noticed a crowd of people surrounding a car! She flew closer and saw that a light pole had been struck by lightning and had fallen onto a car with a man trapped inside!

"Help!" screamed the man. Super Megan turned on her super strength powers. She tried to lift the pole but it was so slippery from all of the rain still pouring down. She turned around to the others and yelled "Everyone grab on!" Together they lifted the pole and pulled the man from the car.

Super Megan always thought flying and strength were her super powers! But that day she learned that teamwork is a super power too!
