your (2)_____ ; you have to believe that who you	SHY	2
are is worth (3)_____ and (4) _____ with the	KNOW / SHARE	3 world. If you are convinced you are a (5) _____	BORE	4 and (6)_____ person, you will be.	INTEREST	5
If, on the other hand, you are certain that you		6 have something to give the world and have big plans on the horizon, I have but one thing to say to you: "Hey, how's it going?" (7) _____ of the same	TIRE	7 old (8) _____ lines? We've all heard them, and they	OPEN	8 can sometimes be a real turn-off. But since you never get a second chance to make a first (9)_____ , what's said in those first few moments	IMPRESS	9
is as important as it often is tongue-tied.
A great way to start a conversation in almost any situation is to ask questions. You can use the weather, your situation, or a request you may have, such as asking for (10) _____ . Break the	DIRECT	10 ice by making a comment or (11) _____ , often	STATE	11 followed by a question. This technique works especially well when you're with a group of people sharing a similar experience. You can also make comments about your (12) _____.	SURROUND	12
