Telling time vhlcentral

Point de départ You use the verb être with numbers to tell time.

- There are two ways to ask what time it is.

	Quelle heure avez-vous/as-tu?
What time is it?	What time do you have?

- To tell time on the hour, use a number + heures. Use une heure for one o'clock.

Il est six .

Il est une .

- To tell the time from the hour to the half-hour, add the number of minutes past the hour. To say it is fifteen minutes past the hour, use et quart. To say it is thirty minutes past the hour, use et demie.

Il est quatre heures .

Il est onze heures .

Il est une heure .

Il est sept heures .

- To tell the time from the half hour to the hour, use moins (minus) and subtract the number of minutes or the portion of an hour from the next hour.

Il est trois heures dix.

Il est une heure le quart.

- To say at what time something happens, use the preposition à.

Le cours commence neuf heures moins vingt.
The class starts at 8:40.

Nous avons un examen une heure.
We have a test at one o'clock.

Write these words verbatim: _____ _____ _____ _____ minutes = _____
...in English.

LIVEWORKSHEETS