MAKING INVITATIONS

LANGUAGE IN CONTEXT Listen to the conversation.

Paul: So, would you like to go out to dinner tonight?

Jane: Well, I'd love to, but I can't.

Paul: Why not?

Jane: Because I have to study. I have a big math test tomorrow, and I want to get a good grade.

Paul: Oh, too bad. Well, do you want to have dinner tomorrow night?

Jane: Sure. Let's try that new Italian restaurant.

Paul: OK. I'd like to try it, too. I need to go to the gym first, so how about seven-thirty?

Jane: Seven-thirty is fine. See you tomorrow!

Paul: OK, bye.

Why can't Jane go out tonight?

Because she needs to go to the gym. | Because she has to study. | Because she already has dinner plans.

Function: Complete the table with expressions with the conversation.

Expressing wishes and desires	Making invitations	Making suggestions	Expressing obligation and necessity
I _____ try it.	_____ go out for dinner tonight?	_____ seven-thirty?	I _____ go to the gym first.
I _____ get a good grade.	_____ want to have dinner tomorrow night?	_____ try that new Italian restaurant.	I _____ study.
I _____ (but I can't).

Form: Choose the correct option.

1. What form of the verb is used after would like, love, have, need, and want?
   infinitive (to + base form) | base form
2. What form of the verb is used after let's?
   infinitive (to + base form) | base form
3. What word does the 'd in I'd represent?
   had | would

PRACTICE Complete this conversation with the correct phrases.

David: Kirsty, _____ go to a movie tomorrow night?

Kirsty: Oh, sorry. I _____, but I can't. I _____ work. How about Friday night? I _____ see that new Will Smith movie.

David: OK. Sounds good. And _____ have dinner after the movie?

Kirsty: Sure. _____ have pizza. I _____ go to the Big Cheese!

David: Great! See you then!