Litter

A park in France has established an interesting way of keeping its grounds free of litter. It has selected and trained six "intelligent" rooks to pick up rubbish and keep the park clean. They have been trained to pick up cigarette ends, paper, wastes of food and other things people throw on the ground. The birds pick up the litter and throw it into a special trash can. People feed the rooks as a reward. The more litter the birds put in the trash can, the more food they get.

The director of the park, Nicolas de Villiers, explained the way of using the crows to make the park clean. He said: "The goal is not just to clean up, but to demonstrate that nature itself can teach us to take care of the environment." Crows are highly sociable and intelligent birds. Some biologists say they are as smart as a seven-year-old child. Mr De Villiers said: "In a good pleasant atmosphere, they like to communicate with people." The crows are speedy workers and can fill a bucket with rubbish in less than 45 minutes.
