Hairstyles Through Time

During the 15th and 16th centuries European men wore had long shoulder length hair. It was also very fashionable for them to wear bangs or fringes. In Italy it was common for men to dye their hair. Women on the other hand often would shave their heads and wear wigs. In the early 17th century waves or curls became popular, because they were a symbol of being a member of upper-class.

After the world war two women started to prefer more natural hairstyles. In the early 1950s women's hair was usually curled and worn in a variety of styles and lengths. Then it was appropriate for men to have short hair. In both the 1960s and 1970s on the other hand both men and women wore their hair very long and straight. Their hair was straightened by chemical products or ironing them with a flat iron.

Today many different hairdos are popular. There are also a lot of styling tools available to make your hair look different. Those include flat iron, curling iron, crimping iron, hair dryers and hair rollers. Some people also wear hairpins and hair bobbles to keep their hair in a hair bun, ponytail or a braid. Those tools make your hair look different temporary. However, some techniques that changed your hair permanently. Those include hair dyes, perm and bleach. Now what hairstyle do you prefer?
