Questions 1 to 8

We interviewed six teenagers at school about their views on extra tuition classes. Read the texts below and answer the questions that follow.

Is It Necessary to Join Extra Tuition Classes?

A - Jenny, 13 years old

Every student has different learning needs and therefore progresses at different speeds. Some students are able to do their best and excel in all the subjects without extra help. However, some students are incapable of achieving the same level of achievement without extra help from other people. Therefore, extra tuition classes are necessary and helpful if the students can only improve his performance with extra guidance.

B - Aaron, 14 years old

Tuition classes are not necessary. As students, we spend at least 6 hours at school every day, except weekends. If the students really need extra help for their studies, they have ample time to get the extra guidance from their school teachers.

C - Olivia, 15 years old

I agree with Aaron. Extra tuition classes are only a waste of money. In my opinion, students fail to perform in their studies because they lack self-discipline. For example, they do not pay full attention in class and complete their homework on time. I don't think they can turn over a new leaf by going to extra tuition classes after school.

D - Ahmad, 16 years old

Being unable to understand the lessons taught by teachers at school is frustrating. If we do not do something to help the frustrated students, they will lose their motivation and passion for learning quickly. Besides, it is undeniable that different teachers have different teaching styles. Sometimes, students are unable to understand the lessons at school but they can understand the lessons in their extra tuition classes due to different teaching approaches adopted by their tuition teachers.

E - Wei Heng, 17 years old

Schools and extra tuition classes emphasise different learning styles. For example, at school, the learning style of learner-centredness is emphasised. Students are expected to discover knowledge on their own while the teachers are merely facilitators. On the other hand, in extra tuition class, the learning style of teacher-centredness is emphasised in which the teachers will act as knowledge distributors. The learning style stressed by extra tuition classes are suitable for Form 5 students who need intensive learning.

F - Elaine, 16 years old

If teenagers have to go to extra tuition classes involuntarily, they might lose their independence and motivation to chase knowledge. They will always wait for the answers from their teachers instead of finding the answers independently. The constant spoon feeding will eventually backfire when they pursue their further studies in the future. As such, an over-reliance on extra tuition classes is definitely a bad thing and shouldn't be encouraged.
