RELIGIOUS STUDIES: SERVING OTHERS

Read the notes carefully. Then answer the questions below.

In St. Mark Chapter 9 verse 35 Jesus stated, "And he sat down, and called the twelve, and saith unto them, if any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant of all". A good leader should therefore seek to serve others. A servant leader is one who exhibits humility, accountability, cares for others and leads by example. In the book of St. John chapter 13 versus 3-5, Jesus exhibited servant leadership by the washing of his disciples' feet.

There are many Old Testament leaders who served with excellence. Three such leaders were Moses, Deborah and Joshua. Moses was known for his humility, Joshua for his courage and Deborah for her wisdom. They were successful leaders who found favor with God.

Children can serve as good leaders by displaying characteristics such as respect, dependability, courtesy, reliability, and honesty. They should also be examples for their peers. They should also be willing to share their skills and resources with others.

Miles Munroe, Mother Teresa, Martin Luther King Jr., Sir Lynden Pindling, Sir Milo Butler and Barack Obama among others are leaders who exemplified characteristics of servant leaders.
