Verbs for Present, Past and Future

Jane bakes muffins today.
The verb bakes tells about now. It ends with –s.
Jane baked muffins yesterday.
The verb baked tells about the past. It ends with –ed.
Jane will bake muffins tomorrow.
The verb will bake tells about the future. It begins with will.

For the following sentences, look at the verbs and choose if it tells about Present (N), Past (P) or Future (F).

1. Jane makes new kinds of muffins.
2. Today he puts in nuts.
3. He mixed in oranges last week.
4. He will use squash next week.
5. He added pineapple yesterday.
6. I will cook my own muffins in the future.

Look at the underlined verb and choose the verb according to the tense in parentheses ( ).

1. Travis yawn last night. (past)	yawned	will yawn
2. Then he climb into bed. (past)	climbs	climbed
3. Soon Travis take a walk. (future)	took	will take
4. Now he meet his friend Nixon. (present)	meets	met
5. Later he meet another friend. (future)	will meet	met
6. Last week all the friends race their bikes. (past)	will race	raced

Choose the verb from the box that completes each sentence.
Add –s, -ed, or will to each verb.

pick	help	look	want	bake	invite

1. Tomorrow Carmen _____ cherry pies.
2. Yesterday she _____ the cherries.
3. Chiyo _____ Carmen with that job.
4. Today Carmen _____ her friends for dinner.
5. Andrew _____ pie right now!
6. Next week Carmen _____ for more cherries.

LIVEWORKSHEETS