Burj Khalifa is 'A Vertical City' that defines the can-do spirit of Dubai

The world's tallest building, Burj Khalifa is a global icon that pushes the frontiers in design, architecture, and construction.

A headlining accomplishment by Emaar Properties, Burj Khalifa underlines the can-do spirit of Dubai. Described as both a 'Vertical City' and 'A Living Wonder,' Burj Khalifa rises gracefully from the desert, honouring the city with its extraordinary union of art, engineering, and meticulous craftsmanship.

At 2,716.5 ft, the 200 plus storey Burj Khalifa has 160 habitable levels, more than any building in the world. With a total built-up area of 5.67 million sq ft, Burj Khalifa features 1.85 million sq ft of residential space and over 300,000 sq ft of prime office space. That is in addition to the area occupied by the Armani Hotel Dubai and the Armani Residences.

With 900 residences including studios and one, two, three, and four-bedroom apartments, The Residence in Burj Khalifa is designed for the connoisseur.

Offering 160 guest rooms and suites, restaurants and a spa, Armani Hotel Dubai brings to life the 'Stay with Armani' promise, an exceptional lifestyle experience defined by the highest standards of aesthetics and service excellence.

The tower offers luxurious recreational and leisure facilities including four swimming pools, excluding the pool in the hotel, lounges for home owners and office owners, health and wellness facilities, a public observation deck and atmosphere, the world's highest restaurant on Level 122.

The observation deck on Level 124, At the Top, Burj Khalifa, is a must-see attraction and offers breath-taking views of the city and the surrounding emirates.

Connected to the tower are The Offices, a 12-storey annex of prime office space and The Club, a four-storey health and wellness centre.

Over 1,000 pieces of art by prominent international and Middle Eastern artists adorn the interiors of Burj Khalifa and Mohammed Bin Rashid Boulevard.

Kiluan Bay

Kiluan Bay is a tourist attraction which is located in Kiluan village, Kelumbayan sub district, Tanggamus district, South Lampung. Kiluan Bay is about 80 kilometers from Bandar Lampung city center or three to four hour if you go there by car. This is the place of migration for a bunch of mouth bottles dolphins.

This bay has stunning natural landscape and coast. The sand beach which is spreading out there is white and gentle. It is quite harmonious with the blue color of the sea. Besides swimming and snorkeling, in this bay you can also see the attractions from a group of dolphins. The attractions of a group of dolphins can usually be seen around 06:00 to 10:00 in the morning. However, to watch the attractions you must first rent a small boat or Jukung.

By using the small boat or Jukung, you will be brought Into the middle of the see where the dolphins gather. It takes around twenty five minutes from the coast. From close distance, you can see a group of dolphins which swim and even jump on the side of the coming boat as if they welcomed your coming.

9. It can be inferred from the second paragraph that....
   A. dolphins can only be seen in about four hours.
   B. jukung is one of the Dolphin's species.
   C. snorkeling can only be done in the morning.
   D. the bay is naturally incredible for its attraction.
   E. small boat can be used toget into Kiluan Bay.

Kapoposang

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Kapoposang is one of the largest of the Spermonde Islands, around 70 km northwest of Makassar, South Sulawesi. Kapoposang covers an area of around 50,000 hectares and is inhabited by around 100 families. Several other islands, both inhabited and uninhabited, lie near Kapoposang. The larger ones include Papandangan, Kondongbali, Suranti and Tambakulu.

Kapoposang and the nearby islands were declared a Nature Tourism Park by the Department of Forestry in 1999. Diving has been an important activity at Kapoposang since the mid 1990s. There were so few local divers at the time, and because of the distance from other well-known diving areas in Indonesia, Kapoposang has basically remained a secret.

The best time to visit Kapoposang is between April and November, when the seas are calm, the weather favorable, and the wind less fierce than in the other months. The trip takes two hours by speedboat; the ocean breezes help to cool your skin in the hot morning sun. As you approach Pulau Kapoposang, you see the deep blue water, which suddenly meets an expanse of coral reefs between extensive shallows with white sands in the seabed. Sea grass also grows lushly near the shore. The sea bed at Kapoposang has a unique composition; near the island are some quite shallow contours, and then suddenly steep underwater cliffs leading to seemingly endless depths. The water is very clear; you can expect underwater visibility of over 15 meters – ideal conditions for divers.

10. The text is about ....
   A. Kapoposang and the surrounding islands
   B. Kapoposang as a diving spot.
   C. Kapoposang as a very popular tourist spot
   D. Kapoposang as a secret area
   E. Kapoposang and the weather

Sita likes to spend her time in a park near her house. She is keen on seeing people gather and have a chitchat there. One thing that she is always interested in, is a clown. She likes to see the clown, with his special costume and funny behaviour, entertaining people. She initially didn't know who the clown is and was eager to know him.

One afternoon, Sita went to the park. As usual, she saw the clown under a big tree. He looked tired and sat on the ground alone. Sita approached him and offered him bread. Thw clown thanked her and enjoyed it. It seemed that he was hungry. Then, they had a chitchat. The clown told her that he lives in a small house. His wife passed away 5 years ago, so now he lives with his only daughter. He works as a clown to give his daughter a better education. He doesn't give up on his fate. He wants his daughter to be a sucessful person and he will struggle for her.

Sita was interested in listening to the clown's story. She wanted to know the clown's daughter, so she asked him if she could meet his daughter. The clown didn't mind and soon they walked to his house that is not far from the park.

Several minutes later, they arrived at a small and simple house. It is the clown's house. When they arrived, a pretty girl welcomed them. You know what! The girl is one of my schoolmates! What a coincidence.

17. Why does the man work as a clown?
    A. He likes such a profession.
    B. He is fond of entertaining children.
    C. He wants to amuse people in the park.
    D. He should earn money for his wife and daughter.
    E. He wants to support his daughter's better education.

Text is for question number 19.

This is my new bicycle which I bought two days ago. I like it and I am proud to have it because I bought it with my own money. I earned it with great efforts.

Before I had a bicycle, I went to school with my father by motorcycle. He dropped me to school before he went to work. When I saw my friends going to school by bicycle, I felt evious of them. They were riding their bicycle while chitchatting and enjoying the serenity of villages and rice fields. Then, I asked for a bicycle to my parents, but they didn't have much money. They spent moner money to pay for my brother's tuitions to study at university. I realised that my brother needed it.

Then, I had an idea to work during my holiday, but my parents disagreed. My rother gave me an idea to make goody bag and then sold them online. I did make several and promote them. Luckily, a person contacted me to order 500 goody bags for her wedding's souvenirs. I did it during my holiday. My mother and brother also helped me. My customer was satisfied with the bags and I was so glad.

Latter, I asked for my parents permission to use the money to buy a bicycle. They agreed. Then, my father accompanied me to a bicycle shop. Now, I ride my bicycle to school, along with my friends.

The Sherlock Holmes Museum

My friend and I didn't even know that this quaint little museum existed but after dodging the dreaded Madame Tussauds' queue, we looked up where else we could go in the area. In comparison, the queue to Sherlock Holmes Museum was long but moved very quickly and we were soon inside the warm, Georgian house, for only £8.

Sherlock Holmes and Doctor John H. Watson lived at 221b Baker Street in 1881-1904, according to the stories. The house is protected by the government due to its "special architectural and historical interest", while the 1st floor study overlooking Baker Street is still faithfully maintained for posterity as it was kept in Victorian Times.

The museum is fun for old and young alike. It is decorated as it is described in the books and you can really imagine the old detective puzzling mysteries over his pipe. Within each room they have props you can pose with and wax models representing victims and villains from the books including the notorious Moriarty.

The part of the museum that my friend and I particularly enjoyed was a book of all the letters posted to the address throughout the years: from children requesting the great detective to solve their mysteries to adults expressing their love for the novels. The book is full of some great treats including adults who genuinely believe the character to be real and have shown their appreciation for his services to the community.

After your journey around the Georgian town house, you can visit the gift shop next door and indulge yourself with a magnifying glass or a flat cap. It is an enjoyable experience. Make the most of our city and its literary culture.

21. Where is the museum located?
    A. It is inside the Madame Tussauds.
    B. It is next to Madame Tussauds.
    C. 212b Baker Street.
    D. 221b Baker Strees.

In comparison, the queue to Sherlock Holmes Museum was long but moved very quickly and we were soon inside the warm, Georgian house, for only £8.

Sherlock Holmes and Doctor John H. Watson lived at 221b Baker Street in 1881-1904, according to the stories. The house is protected by the government due to its "special architectural and historical interest", while the 1st floor study overlooking Baker Street is still faithfully maintained for posterity as it was kept in Victorian Times.

The museum is fun for old and young alike. It is decorated as it is described in the books and you can really imagine the old detective puzzling mysteries over his pipe. Within each room they have props you can pose with and wax models representing victims and villains from the books including the notorious Moriarty.

The part of the museum that my friend and I particularly enjoyed was a book of all the letters posted to the address throughout the years: from children requesting the great detective to solve their mysteries to adults expressing their love for the novels. The book is full of some great treats including adults who genuinely believe the character to be real and have shown their appreciation for his services to the community.

After your journey around the Georgian town house, you can visit the gift shop next door and indulge yourself with a magnifying glass or a flat cap. It is an enjoyable experience. Make the most of our city and its literary culture.

22. What is the writer enjoyed the most at the museum?
    A. Wax models representing victims and villains from the books.
    B. Magnifying glass and flat cap at the gift shop.
    C. Collection of letters posted to the address throughout the years.
    D. The interior of the museum that is decorated as it is decribed in the books.
    E. The Georgian town houses nearby.

In the middle of a beautiful city, there was a museum laid with beautiful marble tiles and a huge marble statue as a part of the display. Many people from all over the world visited the museum every day and admired the beautifully crafted statue.

One night, the marble tiles started talking to the marble statue. Marble Tile said, "Hey, Statue! Don't you think that is not just fair that everybody from all over the world come all the way here to admire you while ignoring and stepping on me."

Marble Statue answered, "My dear brother, Marble Tile, don't you remember we are actually from the same cave."

"Yes, I do! That is why I feel it is even more unfair. Both of us were born from the same cave and yet the world treats us so differently now. This is so unfair!", Marble Tile replied.

Marble Statue said, "Yes you are right my brother. But, do you still remember when the sculptor tried to work on you but you resisted his tools."

"Yes, I despise that guy. He couldn't use those nasty tools on me?" Marble Tile answered.

Marble Statue explained, "Well, since you resisted his tools, he couldn't work on you. When he decided to give up on you, he started to working on me instead. I knew at once that I would be something different and unique after his efforts. I bore all the painful tools he used on me and allowed him to craft me as he wanted!.

Marble Tile exclaimed, "But those tools were so painful.

Marble Statue said calmly, "My brother, there is a price for everything in life. Since you decided to resist and gave up half way, you can't blame anybody who steps on you now".

The marble tiles silently listened to his brother's words and started to reflect on it.

A wealthy businessman worried about his son's bad habits, so he sought counsel from a wise, old man. The old man met the man's son and took him out for a stroll. They walked into the woods, and the old man showed the boy a small sapling and asked him to pull it out. The boy did so with ease, and they walked on.

The old man then asked the boy to pull out a small plant. The boy did that too, with a little effort. As they walked, the old man asked the boy to pull out the bush, which he did. The next was a small tree, which the child had to struggle a lot to pull out. Finally, the old man showed him a bigger tree and asked the child to pull it out. The child failed to pull it out even after trying several times, in different ways.

The old man looked at the boy, smiled and said, "So is the case with habits, good or bad".

Little boy with a slingshot

Once upon a time Sammy and his sister Marie visited their grandparents at their farm. Sammy picked up a slingshot to play with out in the woods. He practised in the woods, but he could never hit the target. Getting a little discouraged, he headed back for the lunch. As he was walking back, he saw Grandma's pet duck.

Just out of impulse, he let the slingshot fly which hit the duck square in the head and killed it. He was shocked and grieved. In a panic, he hid the dead duck in the pile of woods. Marry had seen it all from the window, but she said nothing. After the lunch, the next day Grandma said, "Marie, lets wash the dishes." Marie said, "But Grandma, Sammy told me he wanted to help in the kitchen."

Then she whispered to Sammy, "Remember the duck?", Sammy got nervous knowing her his sister knew about the duck and if he did not obey, she might tell his grandparents about it. So, without saying anything he did the dishes.

Later that day, Grandpa asked if the children wanted to go fishing, but Grandma said, "I'm sorry, but I need Marie to help make supper. "Marie just smiled and said, "Well, that's all right because Sammy told me he wanted to help".

She whispered again to Sammy. "Remember the duck?" So, Marie went fishing and Sammy stayed to help. After several days of Marie taking advantage of sammy, he finally couldn't stand it any longer. He came to Grandma and confessed that he had killed her duck.

Grandma knelt down, gave him a hug and said, "sweetheart, I know. I was standing at the window and I saw the whole thing, but because I love you, I've forgiven you. I was just wondering how long you would let Marie take advantage of you.

Phubbing was first coined as a term im May 2012. An Australian advertising agency created this word to describe the growing of phenomenon of people ignoring their friends and family who were right in front of them and instead of scrolling through their phones.

One study found that more than 17 percent of people phub others at least four hour times a day. Almost 32 percent of people report being phubbed two to three times a day. While the behaviour might not seem like a big deal, research suggests phubbing may be hurting your relationships and your mental health. Read on to learn more.

Phubbing interupts your ability to be present and engage with people around you. Today, almost all people own a smartphone, so the phubbing problem may be getting worse.

Besides that, the effect of phubbing may be worse on people who found themselves at the receiving end of the phubbing. When someone phubs you, you may feel rejected, excluded, and not important. That can have a significant impact on mental health.

Research also shows that people who are phubbed are more likely to reach for their phones and try to engage with their social media network to fill that void. This is the start of a vicious cycle.

Above all, phubbing is a learned behaviour. It only reecently becomes a problem and you can unlearn it. It will take time and some work, but your mental health and your relationship will thank you for it.
