¡Hola Puerto Rico! Bordered by the Atlantic Ocean and the Caribbean Sea, Puerto Rico, with its rich Hispanic heritage, is America's premier 100-mile-long island territory. The Puerto Ricans are self-governed U.S. citizens.

Hey! Try this trick to remember the name of the capital of Puerto Rico. Imagine you are walking along a sandy beach and you find a magic wand. You pick up the wand and wave it over the sand and NOTHING! So much for sand and wands! Well, use this "picture" to remember that San Juan is the capital of Puerto Rico.

Did you know that treasure ships once sailed the water near Puerto Rico? Their hulls were filled with gold as they headed for Spain. Some of them sank in storms off the coast of Puerto Rico. They are still there, somewhere, and treasure hunters are on the lookout.

The skies over Puerto Rico can send down buckets of rain, and then be clear and completely dry 15 minutes later. In Puerto Rico's El Yunque rainforest, you can see a storm on one mountain and clear skies over a nearby mountain.

1. What two large bodies of water border Puerto Rico? _____

_____

2. What is the capital of Puerto Rico? _____

3. Where were the treasure ships that sailed from the Caribbean headed? _____

_____

4. What is the weather like in Puerto Rico? _____

Finally, it was lunch period. Juan wanted to have some fun and forget that he had answered a question wrong on his English test. He should have remembered that a statement ends with a period and not a question mark. It cost him an A.

The special of the day in the cafeteria was chocolate milk. It cost 25¢. Juan got a silly idea.

"Don't drop that glass, young man!" yelled Lucy, the lunch lady, from behind the counter.

"There's only a drop of milk left in it," answered Juan as he balanced the glass on his head while walking backwards. All of a sudden there was a crash! Juan tripped over Tina Tucker's most treasured toy that she'd brought in for Show & Tell. He landed on his behind. "Ouch! That smarts!" moaned Juan as he rubbed his sore spot and wiped the milk off his face.

"Juan, you have no smarts," giggled Tina. "But you sure make lunchtime more entertaining!"

READING PASAGE 4 [25 pts]

MANATEES

Manatees are gentle, slow-moving marine mammals. Most of their time is spent eating, resting, and traveling. Manatees are completely herbivorous. They eat plants and can consume up to 15 percent of their body weight daily. They graze for food along water bottoms and on the surface. They may rest submerged at the bottom of the water or just below the surface, coming up to breathe every three to five minutes. When manatees are using a great deal of energy, they may surface to breathe as often as every 30 seconds.

Manatees can be found in shallow, calm rivers, estuaries, saltwater bays, canals, and coastal areas. The manatee is a migratory species. Within the United States, manatees are concentrated in Florida in the winter but can be found in summer months as far west as Alabama, and as far north as Virginia and the Carolinas. West Indian manatees can also be found in the coastal and inland waterways of Central America and along the northern coast of South America.

Manatees are protected in the United States under federal law by the Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972 and the Endangered Species Act of 1973. It is illegal to harass, hunt, capture, or kill any marine mammal. The Florida Manatee Sanctuary Act of 1978 also protects manatees. It states: "It is unlawful for any person, at any time, intentionally or negligently, to annoy, molest, harass, or disturb any manatee."

Answer the questions below. Choose NO MORE THAN THREE WORDS from the passage for each answer.

16 What three things do manatees spend most of their time doing?

17 What do manatees eat?

18 What may a manatee do if it is using lots of energy?

19 What species are manatees?
