

1. Identify the term that corresponds to each description.

TERM	FUNCTION
	It is the director of your body which controls everything you do.
	It is a network of cells, tissues, and organs that controls thoughts, movements, and simpler life processes.
	It is in charge of important functions in our body as the heart beating and lungs breathing.
	It is the largest part of the brain. It is divided into sections called lobes
	They are specialized cells of the nervous system in charge of transmitting messages.
	It connects the brain to the nerves that are found throughout the body.
	It controls the movement of your muscles and give you balance.
	It is something that causes a response

2. Identify the different parts of the brain

Temporal lobe

Cerebellum

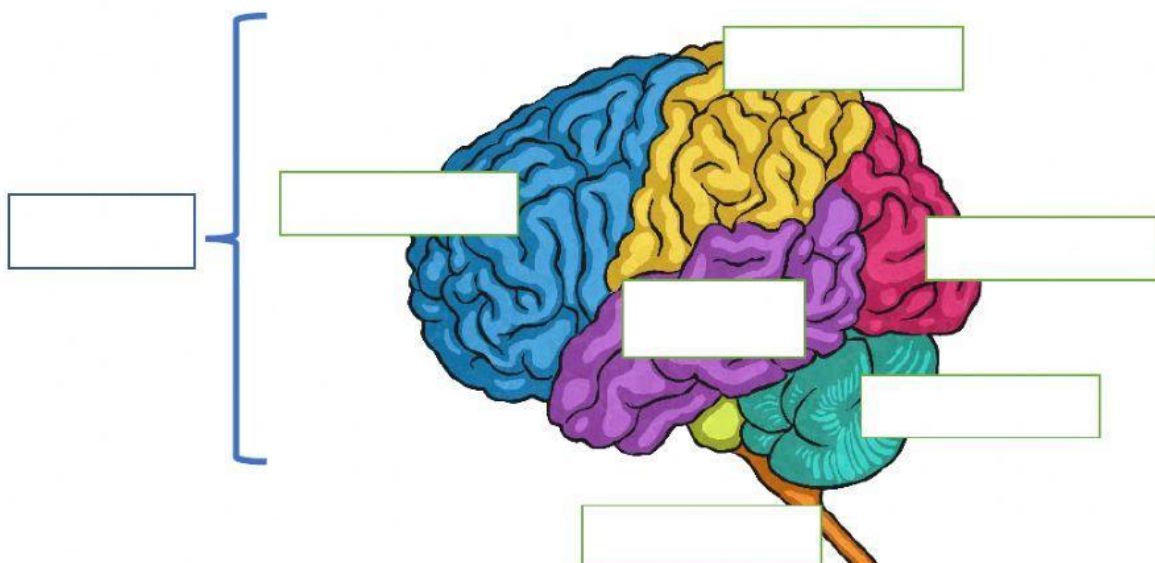

Brainstem

Frontal lobe

Occipital lobe

Parietal lobe

Cerebrum

3. Observe and identify which part of the brain is in charge of the function

