Tết Holiday – The Vietnamese Lunar New Year

Tết, or the Vietnamese Lunar New Year, is the most important and widely celebrated holiday in Vietnam. It usually falls between late January and mid-February, depending on the lunar calendar. Tết is a time for family reunions, honoring ancestors, and welcoming a prosperous new year. Days before the holiday, people clean their houses, prepare special dishes, and decorate with peach blossoms, kumquat trees, and red banners symbolizing good fortune.

One of the most significant traditions of Tết is giving lì xì, or lucky money, to children and the elderly. These red envelopes contain money and symbolize wishes for good health, success, and happiness. Families also gather to enjoy traditional foods like bánh chưng (square sticky rice cake) in the North and bánh tét (cylindrical sticky rice cake) in the South. Visiting pagodas to pray for luck and prosperity is another common activity during the holiday.

Tết is also a time for people to visit relatives, friends, and neighbors to exchange greetings and best wishes. Many businesses close for several days so that everyone can celebrate. It is believed that the first visitor to a house on the first day of the new year, known as xông đất, will bring either good or bad luck for the year, so families often invite someone with a good fortune to be the first guest.

Despite the joyful atmosphere, there are also customs to avoid during Tết. People refrain from sweeping the house on the first day of the new year, as they believe it will sweep away good luck. Arguing, breaking things, or wearing black and white clothing is also discouraged, as these actions are thought to bring bad luck. Instead, everyone
