Camping in the Rain

Last week, my family and I went on a camping trip. Although we arrived at the campground in the afternoon, the sky was getting dark. We thought it was going to rain very soon. So we decided to set up our tent right away. It was hard to do. The tent cover kept flapping because a strong wind was blowing. But we got it set up and crawled inside just before big raindrops started to fall. I was glad to be out of the rain, but I was shivering. I was cold because I had left my jacket in the car. Mom told me to get into my sleeping bag. Then I was very warm and cozy.

The Statue Contest

Mona and her brother Anil were always fighting. One day, they got into an argument in the car. "You're putting your feet on my side," Mona said.

"No I'm not," said Anil. He stuck his tongue out at her.

Mona was mad. "Mom, Anil stuck his tongue out at me!" she cried.

Mom didn't look back. She was driving. "Why don't you have a statue contest?" she suggested. "The first person to move or talk loses."

Mona didn't like to lose. Neither did Anil. They were still and quiet the rest of the ride home.

"It's a tie!" Mom declared as she pulled into the driveway.
