Top Notch 3.4
FINAL EXAM Units 7-8

Mark

Student's Name: _____ Date: _____
Teacher's Name: _____

Listen critically. Write the letter of the correct answer on the line. (Page 84 – Exercise A)

1. The speaker says that _____.
a. the pictures were taken in Haiti.
b. they took the pictures after the reception.
c. his wife took ten pictures.

2. The speaker says that _____.
a. he got married in September.
b. they haven't chosen the date yet.
c. they have a lot of planning to do.

3. One of the speakers _____.
a. wants to catch the bouquet.
b. had a great childhood.
c. caught the bouquet.

4. The speakers say that _____.
a. the reception was simple, but unbelievable.
b. all the people had a great time at the wedding.
c. the wedding dress cost a fortune.

Combine the two sentences into one. Using the relative pronoun in parentheses. Omit the relative pronoun where possible.

5. The man wasn't the thief. The police arrested him yesterday.

_____

6. The celebrations are a lot of fun. They take place during Carnival.

_____

7. The book was great. I read it last week.

_____

8. There's the man. My sister met him last night.

_____

9. I still remember the man. He taught me to play the guitar when I was a boy.

_____

Complete the following sentences with the correct form of the Conditional Sentences.

10. She wouldn't look for another job if she _____ (be) happy there.

11. If he _____ (not play) basketball with us, we'll lose the match.

12. If they had arrived to the airport on time, they _____ (not miss) their flight.

13. If I were you, I _____ (look) for a new place to live.

14. They never cook if their mother _____ (travel)

15. She would understand if she _____ (be) older.

16. He _____ (help) you if he had known you were in troubles.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Read the article and the discussion on the website. Then choose the correct answers.

FORUM

TODAY'S TOPIC: PRIVACY

The next time you're in a public place, look around you. See any video cameras? You might be surprised to discover just how often a camera is recording you without your knowledge. Public surveillance—watching people in public places with video cameras—is getting more common around the world. Police departments position cameras around parks, public squares, and sidewalks to help identify criminals--people who are breaking the law. Businesses also install cameras to monitor the actions of their employees and customers. At the same time, national governments search through billions of private e-mails and social media posts for "red flag" words that might indicate criminal activity or terrorism. Is all this surveillance a good thing? Are we safer now? Or have we lost too much privacy? Different people have very different opinions. What are your thoughts on this controversial issue? Post your comments below!

YESTERDAY, 9:00 A.M.

GLORIA
Registered User
Posts: 53

I'm actually in favor of surveillance. If you're not doing anything wrong, there's nothing to be afraid of. I don't care if the government searches my e-mail for red flag words because they're not going to find any. Only criminals need to worry about privacy.

YESTERDAY, 9:20 A.M.

BRAD
Registered User
Posts: 324

But what if the government is using this technology for more than watching criminals? What if the people in power are looking for citizens that disagree with their political or social beliefs? How can we trust that they're using the technology in an acceptable way?

YESTERDAY, 10:30 A.M.

ANA
Registered User
Posts: 127

Brad, I couldn't agree more! I was in the park with my kids the other day and I noticed a camera pointed right at the playground. It's creepy. I don't know who is on the other side of that camera watching my children. And where does that recording go? I don't think it's right to monitor people unless they're suspected of a crime.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

YESTERDAY, 12:07 P.M.

KRIS
Registered User
Posts: 281

Sorry, guys. Privacy is over. You may not like surveillance, but it's here to stay. The government and corporations are watching you, and there's nothing you can do about it.

YESTERDAY, 1:13 P.M.

KATELYN
Registered User
Posts: 56

I think video and e-mail surveillance are two completely different situations. When you're on a city street, you're out in public. Why shouldn't the city watch you? People probably commit fewer crimes just because the cameras are there. E-mail is different. That's private communication and the government shouldn't be reading it.

YESTERDAY, 2:17 P.M.

WINSTON
Registered User
Posts: 318

Hey Kris – Do you live in a dictatorship? Because if you don't, you can fight for privacy or any other issue that's important to you. Vote for candidates who care about privacy. Don't give money to companies that spy on you. You are not as powerless as you think.

YESTERDAY, 2:33 P.M.

LINDA
Registered User
Posts: 22

Benjamin Franklin said that people who give up liberty for safety don't deserve either one. Maybe we're a little safer with the police watching our every movement and the government monitoring our communication, but I don't care. I have a right to live my life without being watched.

17. Surveillance is not a problem for people who are innocent and don't break the law.
a. Linda b. Gloria c. Winston

18. The government and companies are watching you and it's too late to change this situation.
a. Kris b. Katelyn c. Winston

19. Citizens have the power to change things they don't like.
a. Linda b. Katelyn c. Winston

20. Loss of privacy is too high of a price to pay for safety.
a. Linda b. Gloria c. Katelyn

21. The police should not be able to watch innocent people who are not breaking the law.
a. Ana b. Gloria c. Winston

22. The government shouldn't read e-mail, but street cameras are OK.
a. Katelyn b. Gloria c. Anna

23. The government might watch people who have different opinions or political beliefs.
a. Brad b. Kris c. Katelyn

Write a paragraph describing a historical holiday. Use the back of the page

LIVEWORKSHEETS