

Extra Language Practice

Language focus

Determiners and pronouns

1 Underline the incorrect determiner or pronoun in sentences 1–8.

- 1 In one/every/both respect the products are identical.
- 2 Customers and producers all/both/each agree that changes to shopping patterns are inevitable.
- 3 You can keep the magazines if you like; I've read them all/both/every.
- 4 I've heard that two of the company directors can't stand everyone/one another/each other.
- 5 All/Neither/Either team are likely to win the competition this year.
- 6 Some/Much/No laptops have such high-quality speakers.
- 7 Few/Little/Several people have contacted us about our advertisement.
- 8 Lots/Most/Loads of trainers were returned because there was a fault in production.

2 Match each sentence beginning 1–8 with sentence endings a–h.

- | | |
|--|--|
| 1 It's important to save for your future. All too | a plenty of interest. Look at the advance sales. |
| 2 While you are here you should make the | b of you for coming to this meeting. |
| 3 Despite it being a relatively new product there is | c one, checking how much I'd spent. |
| 4 He went through the items on the receipt one by | d any took a free sample. |
| 5 He has an awful | e none as far as I'm concerned. |
| 6 The quality of the food is second to | f most of your time and visit the Pantheon. |
| 7 I'd like to take this opportunity to thank each | g often people get themselves into debt. |
| 8 I was surprised by their lack of interest. Few if | h lot to do in a short space of time. |