1.- READ AND ANSWER:

The most popular sport in the world is football. A lot of people play football in villages, streets and stadiums all over the world. The most famous football competition is the World Cup. It takes place every four years, and nearly two billion people watch it on television. Football comes from Britain, but now this sport is the national sport in many countries in the world.

Some rules about football are: you can use your feet to kick the ball, and you can also touch it with your head, but you can't touch the ball with your arms or hands on the field; only the goalkeeper can. There are eleven players in each team.

In the past, football was a game just for men, but now half the countries in the world have an international women's team, too. The first Women's World Cup was in 1991.
