Homework Monday Week 3

Reading Homework:

Miguel was finally old enough to join the school's basketball team. He had been playing with his older brother, Berto for years. His brother played for the local university now, and Miguel couldn't wait to show off his skills and talk about his brother at the first practice. He knew his skills would make the other players envious.

Thursday night came and Miguel waited with the other kids for the coach to start practice. He knew he'd impress his peers. The coach said, "Let's form teams and play a game."

The kids began to play. Miguel got the ball. He dribbled down the court right past the other teammates and shot the ball. He missed! The practice game continued. Miguel got the rebound and began dribbling down toward the basket. He heard someone yell, "Pass the ball!", but he ignored it and took the shot and missed again. Another player stole the ball. The game continued and Miguel missed every shot. This was not the outcome he was expecting.

The practice was over and Miguel was upset. He called his brother Berto that night and explained what happened at practice.

"Miguel," said Berto, "playing one-on-one in the driveway with me is different than playing on a team. You are not solo on the court. You
