Natalia has just taken a job as a translator with a London firm, but she wants to improve her everyday English. She talks about her language problems. Complete what she says with an* adjective or an adverb *made from the words in brackets.

I can read English very 1 well (good), but my spoken English isn't always 2 good (good). There are a lot of words that I don't pronounce 3 correctly (correct). I understand written texts 4_____(easy), but when people speak everyday English too 5 _____ (fast), I don't always understand them 6 _____(proper). I still don't speak 7_____(fluent), I'm afraid. I often feel 8 _____ (stupid) when I say something that sounds 9 _____(strange) or even 10 _____ (funny) to English people. I often pronounce a word 11 _____ (bad), or I say something that seems 12 _____ (unusual) in the situation. Then everybody smiles at me in a 13 _____ (friend) way and says nothing. If I'm with friends and I say something 14 _____(wrong), and they find it 15 _____(high) 16_____ (amusing), they laugh at me. I don't mind that so much. But at work, especially on the phone, I sometimes get 17_____(extreme) 18 _____ (nervous). I would like to do a course in English, but it's usually 19 _____(fair) 20 _____ (late) when I leave work, and I feel too 21 _____ (tired). There's 22_____ _____ (hard) enough time at weekends either. I'll just have to work 23___ _____(hard) at my English on my own. What I 24 _____(real) need is an English friend who is 25 _____ (particular) patient!
