Zero Conditional Integration (December)

¿Cómo lo utilizamos y para qué?

RECORDÁ QUE EN ZERO CONDITIONAL SIEMPRE USAMOS PRESENTE, TANTO EN LA CONDICIÓN COMO EN EL RESULTADO.

IF/WHEN	CONDITION	RESULT
	PRESENT SIMPLE	PRESENT SIMPLE
If/When	you heat butter	it melts

RESULT	IF/WHEN	CONDITION
PRESENT SIMPLE		PRESENT SIMPLE
Butter melts	If/when	you heat it

We use the zero conditional when the result of the condition is always true and obvious.

1) Look at the columns and match to form sentences.

IF YOU HEAT WATER,	THE STREETS GET WET.
PLANTS DON'T GROW…	IT BOILS.
AN EARTHQUAKE OCCURS…	WATER TURNS INTO ICE.
IF IT RAINS,	IF THE TECTONIC PLATES MOVE.
IF TEMPERATURE FALLS,	IF THEY DON'T GET ENOUGH WATER.

2) Choose the correct option.

a) If it's really cold in winter, rain TURNED / TURNS into snow.

b) If animals don't get enough water, they DIE / ARE DYING.

c) Our city FLOODED / FLOODS if there is too much rain.

d) People and animals FEEL / FELT cold if the temperature falls.

e) If there is a strong wind, forest fires SPREAD/ SPREADS easily.

3) Complete with the correct form of the verbs in brackets.

a) Ice …… (melt) in the Arctic if the weather …… (get) too warm.

b) If you …… (not drink) enough water, you …… (become) dehydrated.

c) If you …… (mix) red and blue, you …….. (obtain) purple.

d) If it …… (not rain), the ground …….. (not get) wet

e) A lighting …… (appear) if there is dust and water in the air.