THREE NIGHTS LATER old Major died peacefully in his sleep. His body was buried at the foot of the orchard.
	They did not know when the Rebellion predicted by Major would take place, they had no reason for thinking that it would be within their own lifetime, but they saw clearly that it was their duty to prepare for it. The work of teaching and organising the others fell naturally upon the pigs, who were generally recognised as being the cleverest of the animals.
	The funeral was early in March. During the next three months there was much secret activity. Major's speech had given to the more intelligent animals on the farm a completely new outlook on life. This new life would come after the Rebellion.
	Napoleon was a large, rather fierce-looking Berkshire boar, the only Berkshire on the farm, not much of a talker, but with a reputation for get- ting his own way.
	Preeminent among the pigs were two young boars named Snowball and Napoleon, whom Mr. Jones was breeding up for sale.
Snowball was a more vivacious pig than Napoleon, quicker in speech and more inventive, but was not considered to have the same depth of character.

THREE NIGHTS LATER old Major died peacefully in his sleep. ( ) His body was buried at the foot of the orchard. THREE NIGHTS LATER old Major died peacefully in his sleep. His body was buried at the foot of the orchard. The funeral was early in March. During the next three months there was much secret activity. Major's speech had given to the more intelligent animals on the farm a completely new outlook on life. This new life would come after the Rebellion. They did not know when the Rebellion predicted by Major would take place, but they had no reason for thinking that it would be within their own lifetime, but they saw clearly that it was their duty to prepare for it. The work of teaching and organising the others fell naturally upon the pigs, who were generally recognised as being the cleverest of the animals. Preeminent among the pigs were two young boars named Snowball and Napoleon, whom Mr. Jones was breeding up for sale. Napoleon was a large, rather fierce-looking Berkshire boar, the only Berkshire on the farm, not much of a talker, but with a reputation for getting his own way. Snowball was a more vivacious pig than Napoleon, quicker in speech and more inventive, but was not considered to have the same depth of character.

energetic	Vicious	faster	Received responsibility
Get what he wants	Fruit farm	Most important	New view

Linkers

What likers are synonyms for: "but"? What kind of linker is "but"? What can you us it to do? Replace the linkers in the text. (4 in total)

Write five questions based on the characters and the narrative in the text.

Old Major	Trotsky
Napoleon	Czar Nicholas II (previous ruler before the revolution)
Snowball	Karl Marx
Mr. Jones	Stalin

What kind of motifs does Orwell use?

What kinds of animals represent each historical character?

What does Orwell choice of animal tell you about the characters? What does this choice tell you about how Orwell sees these historical characters?

What do you notice about the language of the text? Is it complex? Are there any spelling difference from American English?