4. Why are fast food restaurants so popular?
5. Why does the consumption of fast-food lead to health problems?
6. What food may be considered as risky food?
7. How can British children lose weight?

A. Weight problems among children in Britain are increasing. More and more children are over their ideal weight. Obese children are often bullied at school and may have health problems on too much junk food, computer games and TV. So, the first Britain's camp for obese children has been opened. Each morning at the camp, the children do three hours of activities like football, hockey and rugby. After lunch they have lessons on nutrition and cooking. Most kids leave the camp feeling healthier and happier than before.

B. Do you know a person who has never eaten fast food? Many restaurants sell what is called "fast" or "junk" food - hamburgers, chips and so on. This food is tasty and cheap. Such food is very popular, especially with children and teenagers. What is more, fast food saves much time and effort for busy working people. People don't have to go to a supermarket, prepare meals and wash the dishes when they eat out. However, many experts say that fast food is not healthy.

C. Experts say that fast food makes people overweight and even obese and elevates the risk of diabetes and cancer. If your food includes hamburgers, chips, hot dogs, pizzas and fizzy drinks like Coke, Pepsi, Sprite and others, you are facing a serious problem threatening your health. Such food is full of chemical additives. For example, a can of Coke contains about eight teaspoons of sugar and artificial sweeteners. Moreover, there is a risk of food poisoning.

D. Food poisoning is a common, distressing and sometimes life-threatening problem for millions of people throughout the world. Food poisoning is when someone gets sick from eating food or drink that has gone bad or is contaminated by bacteria. Depending on the type of infection, people can even die as a result of food poisoning. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, about 16 million people in Britain become ill from the food they eat, and about 1,000 of them die every year.

E. People today are probably more concerned about food than ever before. We worry about eating foods that contain too much fat and so we cut down on things like meat, bread, potatoes and dairy products. The problem is that we may also be cutting out good sources of iron or other vitamins and minerals. Suddenly we start feeling tired and irritable. Eating well does not mean that you should cut out all your favourite foods; it just means eating sensibly and trying to avoid too much fast food.

F. Genetically modified crops have been developed by changing the plant's genetic structure in order to help the plant resist against different diseases or produce larger harvest. However, there is no scientific conclusion so far to prove the safety of GM foods for humans. We don't know what unforeseen consequences there might be. Most people prefer not to risk their health because scientists are hot sure if GM food is absolutely harmless or not.

Запишите в таблицу выбранные цифры под соответствующими буквами.

Anne Frank's Diary

Incredible stories that people leave behind can be used to educate and inspire people to be kinder to one another, no matter their background. One such story is that of Anne Frank, the young Jewish girl who was forced into hiding during World War II.

Anne Frank was born in Germany in 1929 during a time when the country was troubled. Many people had lost their jobs. Anne's parents moved the family to Holland when Anne was just four years old Anne lived and went to school in Amsterdam, and had to learn Dutch.

But when World War II broke out, life for Anne and her family became much harder. The Nazis imposed strict rules on Jews, restricting the places they could visit, and even the schools they went to. Anne's father lost his company, as Jewish people were no longer allowed to run their own businesses.

In 1942, the Nazis wanted to take Anne's elder sister, Margot, to Germany, but her family refused to be separated and went into hiding. Anne's father had spent several months preparing a hiding place, in the backhouse of his company at 263 Prinsengracht. Anne later named it the 'Secret Annex'.

The Secret Annex was above the warehouse. The entrance to the Annex was later hidden behind a bookcase. Anne's father, Otto Frank, enlisted help from four of his employees who worked at the office and who became known as 'the helpers'. The helpers brought the family food, clothing and other supplies while they were in hiding.

On her 13th birthday, Anne was given a diary. Anne would write about everyday events in her diary; things that probably didn't seem that important at the time, but that have helped us form a picture of what life was like during this incredibly difficult time in history.

She wrote about what she ate, the books she read, and the arguments she would have with her mother, She also wrote about being in hiding, the fears and difficulties, and how she longed to go outside.

On 4th August 1944. the Nazis raided the 263 Prinscngracht and found the hiding place. They look the 8 people in hiding to Westerbork — a camp that held Jewish people and others captive — in Holland. A month later, they were sent to Auschwitz, a larger concentration camp in Poland.

Conditions at the camp were extremely poor. It was cold and wet, there was little food to eat and disease was common. Anne and Margot both died at the camp in February 1945 - just a few months before the end of World War II. It is believed that they died of a disease called typhus.

Anne's diary was saved by one of the helpers, Miep, When Anne's father Otto - the only surviving member of the Frank family — returned to Amsterdam at the end of the war, he received his daughter's diary from Miep at the day he heard that Anne and Margot died in Bergen-Belsen. He started to read Anne's diary and published it, making Anne's dream of becoming a writer a reality. The diary was published in 1947, titled: The Secret Annex.

Since its publication, Anne Frank's diary has been sold in millions of copies around the world and has been translated into more than 70 languages. Otto hoped that his daughter's diary would educate readers on the dangers of hatred against others, prejudice and discrimination.
