MIXED TENSES

REMEMBER!

We use the Present Tense to refer to routines or actions that take place at the moment of speaking.

We use the Past Tense to talk about actions that started and finished in the past.

We use the Present Perfect Tense to talk about actions that started in the past and continue or have an effect in the present.

We use the Past Perfect Tense to talk about actions that happened before other actions in the past.

- Lisa (die) when Annemarie (be) very little.
- " (give) me your necklace," Annemarie (tell) Ellen.
- When the girls' mothers (find out) that German soldiers (stop) the girls a while before, they (feel) scared.
- Ellen (pretend) to (be) Lise when the German soldiers (enter) Annemarie's house.
- The girls (be) sleeping when the German soldiers (arrive).
- "It (be) dangerous for Jewish people to live here now," Peter (say).
- Denmark's president (enjoy) riding his horse guardless.
- When Annemarie (learn) that Ellen's parents (leave) to (look for) safety, she (be) worried for her friend.
- "Annemarie (be) my friend for so many years! I (not want) anything to (happen) to her," she (express).

- Peter (offer) himself to (help) Jewish families.
- Deep in her heart, Ellen (know) that her family would (be) OK.
- Annemarie's mom and the girls (travel) by train to Uncle Henrik's house, where Annemarie's mom (spend) her childhood.
- "You (be) quiet since we left Copenhagen, Ellen," Annemarie's mom (say).
- "Why (not come) to this house ever before, mom?" Annemarie (ask).
- Fortunately, Uncle Hernik (be) very generous and he (look after) Ellen's family and other Jewish families, too.