An unforgettable charity challenge!

Well, the reason was that our local children's hospital needed to raise money or it would close.

Before I went, I thought that I would be walking along a flat surface but when I saw the Great Wall, my heart sank. Part of the time we would be trekking up hundreds of high steps and, worryingly, some of the paths had steep falls on either side and there was nowhere to go because we were surrounded by mountains and forests.

I was in one of the most amazing places on earth and the views were incredible.

The hospital was delighted because a group of us managed to raise several thousand pounds.

Yes, but I think I'll try and find an easier challenge next time!

A-However, after a while, I started to love the experience.

B-However, I didn't realise how big a challenge it would be.

C-In the end, the adventure was a great success.

D-So why did I decide to do a 90-km walk in six days along the Great Wall of China?

E-Would I be keen to help the hospital again next year?
