Marks Awarded

Amber (A)

My name is Amber and I live in a small city with my parents and two sisters. My parents are both musicians, but I am a student. I don't drive, so I cycle to college on weekdays. In the evenings, I make dolls and puppets for the local school. I love animals, but I don't have any pets at the moment. Last summer, I went on a walking holiday, but I am not going anywhere this year.

Bobby (B)

My name is Bobby and I live in a large village with my two daughters. I used to be a teacher but now I sing in a band. I always drive to work in my little red car. In my free time, I like playing board games. I also enjoy taking my dog for walks. We usually go camping every year but this summer we are going on a sailing holiday. I have never been sailing before!

Christian the Lion

Today we don't usually keep wild animals as pets but in 1969 a famous London shop, Harrods, sold lions, tigers and camels. John Randall and Anthony Bourke bought a baby lion cub there and named him Christian.

Christian lived in their flat, where they looked after him . They fed him steak that they bought from the supermarket, instead of small animals that lions eat in the wild. Every morning for exercise they took him to a quiet park to play, and occasionally they took him to the beach.

A female lion, or lioness, grows up to 2.7 metres long but a male lion like Christian can be three metres long. After a year, Christian was too big to live in the flat and it was risky to take him outside. John and Anthony had to make a big decision. In 1970, they took him to Kenya, where he could run free in the wild. They worked with animal experts and helped Christian join a pride, or group, of lions. They returned in 1971 and 1973 and hoped to see Christian. They were surprised when he recognised them, putting his front paws, or feet, on the men's shoulders. Christian spent his later years free, and in the 1980s he was leading his pride and having cubs of his own.
