WILL VS GOING TO

What do these sentences with "will" and "going to" mean? Read the sentences and choose the best answer.

1. Look at him! He's going to fall!
a. a prediction based on what is happening now
b. a promise
c. an opinion about the past

2. I'll have the chicken, please.
a. a prediction
b. a decision made at the moment
c. a refusal

3. She's going to start a new job next week.
a. a guess without evidence
b. a spontaneous offer
c. a plan arranged before now

4. I'll help you with that project.
a. a promise/offer
b. a prediction
c. a warning

5. I'm going to meet John after school.
a. a plan
b. a sudden decision
c. a prediction

6. I think it will be difficult.
a. a plan
b. an offer
c. a prediction

7. I'll answer the phone!
a. a prediction
b. a spontaneous statement
c. a refusal

8. She is going to have a baby.
a. a prediction based on evidence
b. a sudden decision
c. an invitation

9. I'll text you later.
a. a question
b. a past habit
c. a promise/offer

10. We're going to travel to Cusco in July.
a. a plan
b. a spontaneous decision
c. a guess

11. I'll be there at 6 o'clock.
a. a prediction
b. a promise/arrangement
c. an apology

12. Watch out! That bike is going to hit you!
a. a prediction based on present evidence
b. a plan
c. an offer

13. I will probably go out later.
a. a firm plan
b. a prediction/uncertain decision
c. an instruction

14. I'm going to call my doctor tomorrow.
a. a past habit
b. a spontaneous offer
c. a plan

LIVEWORKSHEETS