BERNARD LOISEAU BIOGRAPHY

Bernard Loiseau was a French chef.

Bernard Loiseau was born in January 13th, 1951 in Chamalières.

As a teenager, he decided to become a chef. His first contact with a high quality restaurant was at the "Troisgros" in Roanne between 1968 and 1971.

He owned his first restaurant "La Côte d'Or" (in Saulieu) in 1982. The well known Guide Michelin gave his restaurant a 3-star rating in 1991. His fanatic attention to detail, frenetic work ethic and discerning palate propelled him to the top of a luxe profession with a knowledgable and loyal but unforgiving and demanding customers.

On February 24th, 2003, Bernard committed suicide, shooting himself in the head, after the Gault Millau restaurant guide downgraded his restaurant from 19 to 17. At the same time a downgrade by Michelin from three to two stars had been prematurely rumoured, but was not done and a denial had been issued to the press.
