Meeting an English family

Juliette is from Paris. She is going to spend a few weeks in an English family in Wembley, London.

Juliette is arriving in a London taxi. Driving on the left is very surprising for her.

She is at the front door. A small girl opens the door. She is four years old. Her brother is standing behind her. He is only two years old. One minute later, a young woman comes to the door.

"Welcome to Wembley!", she says and she offers Juliette her hand. "These are my two children, Elisabeth and Isaac."

"Pleased to meet you, Mrs Frost!" says Juliette with a strong French accent.

"Please call me Diana! Now let me show you your room and then we can have a nice cup of tea. Or would you prefer some coffee?"

"I'd like to try a cup of English tea, please."

"This is your bedroom. The bathroom and toilet are just opposite your door. Now I'll just go and put the kettle on."

"Excuse me. What's a kettle?"

"In England, we use a kettle to make hot water. We can then put the hot water in a teapot or use it to make instant coffee. And by the way dinner will be ready at five thirty."

Once in her room, Juliette can relax. She is happy with her new home, but she thinks that the British are strange. They drive on the left, they don't kiss when they meet, their favourite drink is tea , they use strange metal kettles to make the water hot and they have dinner very early ... and she knows she is not yet out of the woods!
