

Subjects and Verbs

- In a sentence that tells about now, singular subjects use a verb that ends in -s.

The teacher sits in the bleachers.

- In a sentence that tells about now, plural subjects use a verb without the -s.

The teachers sit in the bleachers.

Luke Goes to Bat
Grammar: Subject-Verb
Agreement

Thinking Question

*When should I
add -s to the end of a verb that tells about now?*

Circle the correct verb to go with the subject. Then rewrite the sentence.

1. The coaches (ride, rides) the bus to the game.

---

2. My friend (hand, hands) the man a ticket.

---

3. Mom and Dad (cheer, cheers) at the game.

---

4. The players (look, looks) at the goalie.

---

5. The kicker (kick, kicks) the ball.

---