The area now known as the United States of America was not an unpopulated wilderness before the arrival of European settlers. Among those who were already living off the land were the Cheyenne, one of several tribes of Native Americans. Like other tribes, such as the Sioux and the Navajo, they were put under a lot of pressure to change both where and how they lived.

line 7 ›

Four hundred years ago the Cheyenne, whose name means 'little red-talker', were based in the Eastern Woodlands. Unusually for Native American tribes, they were farmers, planting corn and beans rather than hunters. However, by the middle of the nineteenth century this had changed, and the Cheyenne had developed a horse culture and hunted bison on the Great Plains.

Traditionally, the chiefs or elders of the Cheyenne were organised into the 'Council of Forty-Four.' They had rules for everyday life, warfare, celebrations and ceremonies. One thing that made the Cheyenne different from other tribes, which were exclusively patriarchal, was that women were far more active in tribal affairs.

In twenty-first century America, many Cheyenne live in exactly the same way as do most people in big cities. However, there is another option for those who want to keep their traditional way of life. This is to live on the Northern Cheyenne Indian Reservation in southeast Montana, or on the Southern Cheyenne Reservation in central Oklahoma. The combined population of the Cheyenne is presently near to 20,000.

1. When did the Cheyenne migrate to the Great Plains?

- a. around two hundred years
- b. more than four hundred years ago
- c. as soon as the Europeans arrived in America
- d. in this century

2. What does the word they refer to in line 7?

- a. the Sioux and the Navajo
- b. the Cheyenne
- c. several Native American tribes
- d. the European settlers

3. Where would a Cheyenne who wanted a traditional way of life prefer to live?

- a. on a reservation
- b. in a big city
- c. anywhere in Montana
- d. on the Great Plains

4. Which of the following is not true?

- a. Europeans were not the first people to live in the US.
- b. Today some Cheyenne live on reservations.
- c. The Cheyenne have always lived in the same place.
- d. Women in Cheyenne communities had a higher status than in other tribes.

Drive-ins or Drive-thrus?

People in the U.S. love getting things fast, and one of the most popular ways to buy things is through a drive-thru. In fact, these days people can do almost anything in a drive-thru. You can go to a drive-thru bank or restaurant, and if you want, you can even get married in a drive-thru! In Las Vegas, there are so many drive-thru wedding chapels that it's also called the 'wedding capital of the world'. You can even have a wedding based on a theme, like Star Trek.

Earlier, in the 1950s, though, drive-ins were very popular. A drive-in can be a restaurant, where you park your car and eat in it, or a drive-in cinema, where you watch a film on a big screen from inside your car. Drive-ins became less popular in the 1970s when drive-thrus first appeared. With a drive-thru, you don't even need to stop your car! Who knows what the future of drive-thrus will be. Some day we might be able to have a drive-thru supermarket, or even a hospital!

1. Drive-thrus are popular in the US because people like to get things quickly. ☐

2. Many people in Las Vegas have weddings based on a theme. ☐

3. Drive-thrus made drive-ins less popular. ☐

4. There are even drive-thru hospitals now. ☐
