Doctors say that exercise is good for you, but it shouldn't hurt. You don't want to have an accident or injury when you exercise. Here are some tips:

- Wear the right shoes. Your feet support your whole body.
- Drink a lot of water when you exercise. But don't eat for an hour before you exercise. Food and exercise don't go together.
- Slow down or stop if you feel bad. You should be able to talk and have a conversation when you exercise.
- Look where you are walking or running. You don't want to fall.
- Exercise with a friend. If you have a problem, your friend can help.

Example: Exercise is NOT good for you when it

- [a]. hurts you. b. makes you tired. c. makes you thirsty.

28. What supports your whole body?

- a. your legs b. your shoes c. your feet

29. What should you be able to do while you exercise?
