LISTENING: MULTIPLE-CHOICE ACTIVITIES

In this type of activity you choose the best answer from three or four different options.

Step 1: Read the different answers before you listen. Decide which words you think are important. They can give you ideas about the topic of the text and the vocabulary in it. The questions are usually in the same order as you hear them in the recording.

Step 2: When you listen, do not write the answers immediately. Sometimes the speaker says one thing and then changes what they say or adds new information.

Step 3: You usually hear the text twice. Do not panic if you do not understand information the first time.

Step 4: At the end, check that you have one answer for each question. Never leave answers blank in an exam.
