SECOND THIRD MIXED CONDITIONALS

Examples:

If I went to the party, I would be tired tomorrow. 2nd
If I had gone to the party, I would have been tired.3rd

In the first sentence, we use the second conditional because the party is in the future and we are imagining what the situation would be. In the second sentence, the party is in the past. We didn't go but we are imagining what would have happened if we had gone to it.

Mixed Conditionals:

2nd 3rd

If I went to the party, I would have been tired.

Or

2nd 3rd

I would be tired tomorrow if I had gone to the party.

Read the sentences below and try to complete the 2nd conditional.

1. If I were rich_____
2. If you were president_____
3. If she studied more_____
4. If he had a new car_____
5. If they won the match_____

Read the sentences below and try to complete the 3rd conditional.

1. If I had been rich_____
2. If you had been president_____
3. If she had studied more_____
4. If he had had a new car_____
5. If the had won the match_____

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Now try to mix the two conditionals in one, follow the example and respect the structure order.

1.
2.
3.
4.
5.

LIVEWORKSHEETS