The Mysterious Cabin

Emma and Jake love exploring the forest near their town. Every weekend, they climb the tallest trees and discover new paths.

Today, they walk through a narrow trail when they see an old wooden cabin. The door is slightly open, and a strange light is flickering inside.

"Do you believe someone lives here?" Jake asks. "I don't know, but I bet this place has secrets," Emma replies.

As they step closer, the wind blows harder, and the trees bend under its force. Jake dares to push the door open, and they both enter.

Inside, candles are burning, and an old book lies on a wooden table. Emma checks the pages and discovers strange symbols.

Suddenly, the book bursts into flames. Emma and Jake cry out in fear. The walls begin to shake, and they hear a whisper calling their names. Emma clings to Jake's arm. "We need to leave!" she shouts.

But the door closes by itself. The room becomes colder. The whispering voice becomes louder. Jake grabs Emma's hand and pulls her towards a window. They try to open it, but it doesn't move.

At that moment, an old man appears in the corner of the room. He is wearing a long black coat and holding a silver key. "You dare to enter my cabin," he says. "Now, you must solve the mystery."
