HAVE

HAVE is an auxiliary verb only in two cases:
1) when used together with got (tener)
2) with a past participle (haber)

1) The verb tener is used with got in British English, but only in the present simple.
In American English it is not used with got.

Tener (present simple)

UK – have got / has got	US – have / has
I have got a car / She has got a bike	I have a car / She has a bike
I haven't got a car / She hasn't got a bike	I don't have a car / She doesn't have a bike
Have you got a car? / Has she got a bike?	Do you have a car? / Does she have a bike?

Tener (past simple)

I had a car
I didn't have a car
Did you have a car?

2) Haber + past participle (present perfect)

Haber + past participle
I have worked today / He has studied hard
I haven't worked today / He hasn't studied hard
Have you worked today? / Has he studied hard?

The verb HAVE can also mean tener que and tomar, but then it is not an auxiliary verb.
It is a normal verb and therefore needs do/does/did (?) and don't/doesn't/didn't (-).

Tener que – normal verb	Tomar – normal verb
I have to go / He has to go	I have eggs for breakfast / She has toast
I don't have to go/ He doesn't have to go	I don't have eggs for breakfast /She doesn't have toast
Do you have to go?/ Does he have to go?	Do you have eggs for breakfast?/ Does she have toast?
