FORM 10 UNIT 8 NEWS LESSON 1- 3 (active vocabulary)

Fill in the missing words and prepositions.

_____ fact, I still try to read the news _____ a regular basis, even though social media seems to be taking over. For me, it's not just a way to pass the time; it's about staying connected to what's actually happening. In the UK, as most of you know, newspapers are divided _____ distinct groups that cater to very different tastes.

I usually steer clear of tabloids. While they are a massive part of the _____ media, I find their style a bit too _____ for my liking. They often _____ on celebrity gossip with a very biased perspective. If I'm looking for a reliable _____ of information, I prefer _____ or the Berliner format. I feel they provide readers _____ news that is more balanced and _____. I think it's important to be an intelligent consumer of media. Broadsheets tend to be more serious; they deliver in-depth analysis and _____ complex political context that you just don't get in a quick headline. In a world of "fake news," finding a paper that tries to be objective is everything.
