

WRITING

Adding details

Read some sentences from an article a student wrote about her grandparents' kitchen and use these ideas to include in your own writing.

a) Providing a description

There are usually some flowers from the garden on the table and the smell of something wonderful cooking in the ancient stove.

b) Providing feelings

I always associate the kitchen with my grandparents.

c) Providing facts

The house was built in 1910 and the kitchen was extended in the 1970s.

d) Making a comparison

My grandfather prefers to eat in the dining room because the chairs are more comfortable but my grandmother thinks it's too formal in there.

e) Giving an example

She's a very generous person; she makes jam for all her neighbours and gives them cherries and strawberries from her garden.

f) Giving an opinion

It is difficult to choose my favourite dish but most people agree that my grandmother's fruit cake is delicious.
