Education is so important because it is supposed to help us get prepared for the challenges in our life. That's why in most schools of all kinds (1) _____ with challenges in life is widely studied. However, things such as talent, energy, goodwill, and (2) _____ seem to disappear. In order to improve education, it is claimed that what we need is not money but that we must pay more attention to the real purpose of education, which is aimed to help us with: working and (3) _____. To address these needs, two crucial subjects must be included in the curriculum. The first one is (4) _____ since we don't fully understand how the economy works. To help to study this subject, maths is taught to help students deal with money. It is hoped that students can get more understanding of the global economy together with other terms such as leadership, marketing, and competition, (5) _____, and HR. Secondly, students really need to study themselves since we usually misunderstand ourselves. In everyday life, students would be taken through the (6) _____, defensiveness projection and denial. They should be taught a number of concepts and helped towards their personality maps with particular attention paid to (7) _____ so that they can understand, among other issues, what type of people they are (8) _____ to go out. It is essential that they should also be taught (9) _____ so that they can understand which job they are fit for. The (10) _____ is one of the important criteria of an ideal education system that helps people live a better life together.
