Community Service Day

Last Sunday, Minh and his classmates joined a community service activity in their town. They met at school at 7 a.m. and walked to the local park together. The park was beautiful, but there was a lot of rubbish on the ground.

First, the students picked up plastic bottles, paper, and food bags. Then, they put the rubbish into different bins. Some students watered the flowers, while others planted small trees near the playground. Minh and Lan painted the old benches blue and yellow.

At 10 a.m., the group took a short break and drank some water. Everyone felt tired, but they were happy because the park looked cleaner and nicer. Their teacher said, "Small actions can make a big difference."

After the activity, Minh decided to join more volunteer work in the future. He believes that community service helps people become kinder and more responsible.
