

A person took a walk around town and lost a thing somewhere in there. You're a seeker who has to help that person find the place in town where she/he lost the thing. In order to do this you have to:

- Read the text below paying special attention to the places where the person went and was.
- To help yourself, you can mark with a colour you like on the map below, the directions the person is giving you.
- Find out the place where the thing is.
- Once you find the place, complete the sentence with the place's name.

(This is the map)

My free day

- Yesterday, it was my free day so I took a walk in my town. I went to many places and had fun. When I arrived home, I looked for my mobile phone but I couldn't find it. At that moment I realized that I had lost it somewhere in town. The problem is that I went to so many places that it could be anywhere. Can you help me find it?

- Of course

- Thank you!

- Well, I need you to remember and tell me every step you took and every place you went to in town.

- Okay. I remember that I left my house with my children and left them in the bus station.

- Where do you live? On which street?

- I live on Oak Street near the hospital. I went straight on Oak Street and then turned left on Pine Avenue to the Bus station.

- Did you have your mobile phone there?
- Yes. Then I went to the cafe to have breakfast. I went straight on Pine Avenue and then turned right on Elm Street to the cafe. I sent some whatsapps to my friends and then I left. I had my phone with me there because I used it to pay for the meal.
- Where did you go next?
- I went to the bookstore that is next to the cafe. I used my phone there to show the salesclerk the picture of the cover of the book I wanted to buy.
- Okay. Where did you go next?
- Then, I went to the shopping mall. I turned left on Pine Avenue, went straight and then I turned right on Oak Street to the mall. I was really happy because I bought a new dress.
- Really?
- Yes! When I entered the mall I went to the Chanel store. I picked out some dresses and walked into the fitting room to try them on. I was taking some pictures of myself on my new dress with my phone when a sales clerk asked me to hurry up because there were other customers waiting to use the fitting room. I put my phone on a table that was there so I could take the dress off and put on my clothes. Then I left the mall.
- Where did you go next?
- Then I went to the school to pick up my children. I turned right on Pine Avenue, went straight and then I turned right on Elm Street. Finally I walked straight to the school. I was about to call a taxi to take us home but I couldn't find my phone.
- So, you didn't know where your phone was
- No, I didn't. I was getting upset so my children told me that they didn't mind walking home for today.
- Where did you go next?
- Finally I took my children to the restaurant to have lunch. We went straight on Elm Street and then turned left on Hill Road. Then we went home. So, what do you say? Where did I leave my phone? Do you have any ideas?
- Yes, I do. I think I know exactly where you left it.
- Really? Where? Tell me, please.
- Okay. Your phone is in the_____
- You're right! Now I remember. Thank you so much for your help.
- You're welcome.
