Richard Prescott

While Richard's friends play computer games, he is busy selling cars. Richard sold his first Porsche car when he was 12 and made his first million dollars at the age of 16.

'People think my life is different from theirs,' says Richard, 'but the only difference is that I buy and sell cars.' Except that not every teenager has a Ferrari and wears expensive clothes...

Richard's father has helped him a lot. He has worked for his father's used car business for three years. 'It wasn't easy at first,' says his father. 'But Richard is a talented boy and he is very good with customers. I'm very proud of him.'

Richard's job has had a big impact on his school work. He left school recently, and now has private teachers. 'My teachers thought I had to stay at school and do my exams,' explains Richard, 'but school isn't useful for me.'

However, he does not criticise school education. 'If someone wants to be a doctor or an architect, they need to take exams,' he says.

So, is a successful, well-paid job the most important thing for Richard?

'No, not really,' he says. 'My father once said that everything he had was for sale, except his family, and my family is really important to me, too.'
