READING COMPREHENSION

A Student's Daily Routine (B2 Level)

Every weekday, Emma wakes up at 6:30 a.m. She starts her day by making her bed, taking a shower, and getting dressed. Then, she has a healthy breakfast with her family. She usually eats eggs, toast, fruit, and drinks a glass of orange juice. Before leaving home, she checks her backpack to make sure she has all her books, notebooks, and homework.

School starts at 8:00 a.m. Emma studies several subjects, including English, Mathematics, Science, History, and Art. Her favorite subject is English because she enjoys reading stories and learning new vocabulary. During lunch break, she spends time with her classmates. They often talk about their lessons, play games, or prepare for upcoming exams together.

After school, Emma goes home at 3:30 p.m. She has lunch and relaxes for about thirty minutes before starting her homework. She also reviews her class notes to prepare for future tests. In the afternoon, if she finishes her homework early, she enjoys riding her bicycle, reading books, or practicing the piano.

In the evening, Emma helps her parents with household chores, such as washing the dishes, setting the table, or cleaning her room. After dinner, she spends some time reading a novel or watching an educational documentary. Finally, she goes to bed at 10:00 p.m. because she believes that getting enough sleep helps her stay healthy, focused, and ready for the next school day.
