Screens, Streets, and Simple Joys

Every evening, in millions of homes across Vietnam, a familiar scene takes place. Teenagers sit alone in their rooms, scrolling through short videos or chatting with friends online. Meanwhile, their grandparents sit quietly outside, watching the sky turn orange. Today, young people spend a large part of their leisure time on electronic devices, and this has quietly changed the way they connect with the people around them.

This shift is happening everywhere, even in the countryside, where life once moved more slowly. Rural life used to give young people a strong sense of belonging. They learned local customs, joined traditional festivals, and heard stories from their elders. But as screens become more pervasive, these daily rituals are fading. A healthy lifestyle is not just about eating well or exercising. It also means finding time to talk to a neighbor, or simply sit with family without a screen nearby.

Perhaps the most important thing young people can do is look back before they look forward. Vietnamese culture has always valued community, family bonds, and a slower kind of joy. These are not old-fashioned ideas. They are, in many ways, timeless. The future will bring more technology and faster communication, but the wisdom to use them well may come from remembering that a shared meal or a walk through a familiar street can still be the most enriching experience of all.

Question 31: Which of the following is NOT mentioned in the passage as something rural life used to offer young people?

A. A chance to hear stories from older people
B. A stronger feeling of belonging to a place
C. Opportunities to take part in local festivals
D. More time to learn new skills through apps

Question 32: The word "pervasive" in paragraph 2 is closest in meaning to _____.

A. widespread B. attractive C. expensive D. powerful

Question 33: The word "enriching" in paragraph 3 is OPPOSITE in meaning to _____.

A. boring B. worthless C. difficult D. unpleasant

Question 34: According to paragraph 2, what is the author's perspective on a healthy lifestyle?

A. It primarily focuses on maintaining physical fitness and nutrition.
B. It involves balancing personal habits with meaningful social interactions.
C. It is achieved by completely replacing digital screens with daily rituals.
D. It requires young people to live in the countryside to find a sense of belonging.

Question 35: Why does the writer describe teenagers using phones while grandparents watch the evening sky?

A. To show that older people enjoy being alone more
B. To suggest that grandparents dislike modern devices
C. To prove that evenings are quieter in the countryside
D. To highlight two different ways of spending free time

Question 36: Which of the following would be the best title for the passage?

LIVEWORKSHEETS

A. The History of Traditional Festivals in Modern Vietnam

B. How Electronic Devices Improve Global Communication

C. Reconnecting with Traditions in a Technology-Driven World

D. The Differences Between Rural and Urban Lifestyles

Natural disasters are no longer rare "big events" we only hear about once a year. Today, floods, storms, and wildfires can trend on TikTok and X within minutes, and people often learn (37) _____. This is helpful because it spreads awareness fast, but it also creates a problem: scary clips can cause panic, and some posts are edited or out of date. In a crisis, attention is powerful, so platforms should push verified alerts, (38) _____.

Another hot topic is how disasters connect (39) _____. Many cities now use apps, sensors, and AI to predict heavy rain or track wildfire smoke, and this can save time and lives. However, not everyone has good internet, a smartphone, or the skills to use these tools. After a disaster, power cuts and weak signals are common, so we (40) _____. In my opinion, the best solution is a mix—smart tech, strong public systems, and responsible online behavior—so that people are safer, not just more informed.

A. still need simple plans: emergency kits, clear meeting points, and community support

B. the news from short videos before they see an official warning

C. with technology and daily life

D. while users should think twice before sharing dramatic content

Question 37: _____. Question 38: _____. Question 39: _____. Question 40: _____.
