Tom lives on Baker street. It is small but pretty and clean with eight houses on the road. All of the houses are big and detached with three bedrooms. Tom's neighbours are very friendly. Saj and Rob live next door to him, and they are his best friends. At the end of the road, there is a baker's and a butcher's.

Tom's mum and dad live round the corner and near the post office. Two of Tom's friends, Paulo and Rose, live across the road from Tom's parents on Oxford street. When Tom goes to the post office, he gives his washing to his parents.

Tom loves where he lives because it's near where he works. He walks to work with Saj to Queens Avenue in the bus station. Saj works behind where Tom works. Tom doesn't like where he works, it is dirty and smelly. When Tom goes home, he feels happy.
