1

Woman: Can you help me get dinner ready, Michael? I know you've got some homework to do but you'll have time to do that after we've eaten.

Boy: But there's a _____ on TV later that I want to watch.

Woman: Well, I need you to help me. You'll still have time to do your homework afterwards, and you can always record the programme.

Boy: All right then. I suppose I can watch it tomorrow.

2

Radio announcer: And another local _____ this month is the World Music Festival in Raleigh Park. This is held every year and has always been a great success. It begins this year on the 28th and tickets go on sale on the 6th. It's a popular event, so don't wait too long if you're interested. If you want to know more, then listen to this programme on the 10th when the organizer, Nick Phillips, will be here in the studio to talk about the festival and this year's bands.

3

Woman: So you had a great holiday then?

Man: Yes. I've got some _____ here. You can see our hotel in this one.

Woman: Oh. I like the fountain in front and the trees.

Man: No, ours was the one next door. It didn't have a fountain or any trees, but it had some tables outside where we had lunch every day.

4

Boy: Is that your new teacher over there, Nena? The one with glasses and long, dark hair?

Girl: She doesn't wear glasses and she's tall with short, dark hair.

Boy: Is she standing next to the other tall woman? The one with short, fair hair.

Girl: Yes, that's her.

5

Man: Here's the weather _____ for the next few days. We've got sunny skies at the moment but that's not going to last long. By tomorrow it will be cloudy but it won't actually rain till Saturday.
