Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the following questions.

The Amazon rainforest is home to more than a third of all the world's species of plants, birds and animals. Scientists have discovered thousands of types of plants and animals that can only be found there. There are thousands more that we haven't discovered yet. There are at least 2.5 million species of insects there. Imagine what would happen if they all lost their home? Unfortunately, it's happening right now. Yet, the rainforest is big. But it is getting smaller. The problem is that people are cutting down the trees, mainly to make room for cows. These provide meat and make money for their owners. This process of cutting down trees is called "deforestation".

The good news is that it is slowing down. In 2004, for example, more than 27,000 square kilometers were cut down. That's an area bigger than Wales. In 2006, because of all the campaigns to save rainforest, it dropped to just over 13,000 square kilometers. The bad news is that it's not enough. Scientists predict that by 2030, the rainforest will have become smaller by 40%. It's possible that by the end of the 21st century, the rainforest will have completely disappeared. With deforestation, thousands of the animals, birds, fish and plants that live in the Amazon rainforest lose their home, their natural habitat. Some of them move to other areas, but most of them die. Many species have
