Maze 2

Nowadays, students need to use the internet study more and more.
, it is important that they develop effective online searching skills to find what they are looking for quickly. There are a number of strategies that help students in becoming smart online searchers. Firstly, it is a good idea to use more than one key word when they are doing a search. If they want out about seagulls, for example, it is to search for "bird seagull" and not just "seagull". Seagull might also be the name of anything, from a hotel to a film. Next, searchers need to check their spelling because the smallest typing mistakes can bring unwanted results, especially if the mistyped words exist. Thirdly, students experiment with different search engines until they find the one is best for them. Finally, reliability is very important when anyone searches on the internet. Online searchers should not make the mistake of everything they see. Some websites are and some information is false. Everyone needs to check their information on other websites before accepting it.
