Moving to a new school

Recently, my family has moved to a new city and I've started at a new school. It hasn't been easy to make new friends and sometimes I've felt very sad. I used to stay in touch with Ian, my best friend at my old school, and so I didn't feel too lonely because I could talk to Ian on the phone every day. Now, however, Ian has fallen out with me because he says that he hasn't forgiven me for leaving and that we don't spend enough time doing things together. I've been so worried about him and I've tried to talk to him but he never answers his phone or the messages I send him. Then I heard that he has made a new best friend so I think I've been forgotten. I've tried really hard to hit it off with someone in my new school but I still haven't made a friend who wants to spend time doing things with me. A new term has just started and I've joined the tennis team because I've always enjoyed playing tennis, and I wonder if this will help me make new friends?
