Dolly Parton's "Jolene"

Who is the self-poet talking to? What's her name? Can you spell it?

What sorts of things does the self-poet talk about her?

Her beauty	Her crimes	Her eyes	Her skin	Her body
Her hair	Her smile	Her voice	Her kiss	Her sins

What does she compare each of the items above with?

Her beauty	emerald green
Her hair	soft like summer rain
Her skin	a breath of spring
Her eyes	beyond compare
Her smile	flaming locks of auburn
Her voice	ivory

Match the doer to their deeds:

1. The self-poet	( ) Could easily take her man
	( ) Means a lot to her
2. Her husband	( ) Talks about her in his sleep
	( ) Can do nothing to keep from crying
3. Jolene	( ) Could have her choice of men
	( ) Begs

Let’s put the lyrics in the correct order!

Jolene, Jolene, Jolene, Jolene
Oh, I'm you begging of please take man don't my
Jolene, Jolene, Jolene, Jolene
Please take don't him
even you can though
Your is compare beauty beyond
With flaming hair auburn locks of
With skin of green ivory eyes and emerald
Your spring is a breath of smile like
Your rain voice is like soft summer
And , Jolene can compete with you not I
And easily can understand I
How man easily take could my you
But , Jolene know he you means what to me don't He sleep you about in his talks

There's keep nothing to do can I

From , Jolene calls he crying when your name

I have had to talk with you this

My on you happiness depends

And decide , Jolene to do you whatever

And men have your choice you could of

But again I love never could

Cause , Jolene the only me for he's one

Jolene, Jolene, Jolene, Jolene

Oh, of you begging I'm

Please, take man don't my

Jolene, Jolene, Jolene, Jolene

Please, him take don't

Even can you though

Jolene, Jolene
