Pastoral Review

Looking for a delicious and family-friendly restaurant by the Boston Children's Museum? Look no further. Step inside of this kid-friendly Fort Point restaurant and you'll feel like you've stepped into an industrial farmhouse. To the right, you'll find the main dining room, open and airy with big windows looking out onto Congress Street. To the left are the kitchen, the beautiful pizza oven, and Pastoral's quick take out area.

Service is speedy, friendly and . and the waiters will supply kids with crayons and paper. Unfortunately, the environment of the restaurant is than in other pizza places, so it's not the option if you are looking for silence. As for the food, it's fantastic, the pizza, which is amazingly chewy and delicious. It's the pepperoni ever, you can't miss it!

The kid's menu is simple, offering pizza and pasta options for children for $8, so it is not as expensive as Mamma Jamma. There are also some other kiddie-sized offerings, including drinks with free refills and mini desserts.

I recommend Pastoral to anyone who wants to eat delicious and cheap pizza and doesn't mind the noise.
